

2022 NW REGIONAL ICAC CONFERENCE SPONSOR BROCHURE

The Internet Crimes Against Children program is a national network of 61 coordinated task forces representing more than 4,500 federal, state, and local law enforcement, and prosecutorial agencies. These agencies are engaged in both proactive and reactive investigations, forensic investigations and criminal prosecutions. By helping state and local agencies develop effective, sustainable responses to online child victimization – including responses to child sexual abuse images, the ICAC Program has increased law enforcements capacity to combat technology facilitated crimes against children at every level.

The ICAC Program was developed in response to the increasing number of children and teenagers using the Internet and other technology, the proliferation of child sexual abuse images available electronically, and the heightened online activity by predators seeking unsupervised contact with potential underage victims. Because ICAC members understand that arrests alone cannot resolve the problem of technology-facilitated child sexual exploitation, the ICAC program is also dedicated to training not only law enforcement officers and prosecutors, but educating parents, youth and the public about the potential dangers of online activity.

Since 1998, the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children (NCMEC) has received over 43 million reports of child sexual exploitation including child pornography, sex tourism, sex trafficking, sexual molestation, online enticement, and more. As a result, the Child Victim Identification Program (CVIP) has reviewed more than 267 million images/videos. During this same time, they have identified over 15,800 child victims. These reports are subsequently forwarded to the ICAC task force agencies for investigation and prosecution.

Did you know that:

- 1 in 7 of the 25,000 runaways reported to NCMEC in 2017 were likely sex trafficking victims?
- 88% of these likely sex trafficking victims were in the care of social services or foster care when they went missing.
- The average age of child sex trafficking victims reported missing to NCMEC is only 15 years old.
- Child sex trafficking has been reported in every single U.S. state.
- 67% of CSAI (Child Sexual Abuse Imagery) survivors said the distribution of their images impacts them differently than the hands-on abuse they suffered because the distribution never ends, and the images are permanent.

2022 NW REGIONAL ICAC CONFERENCE SPONSOR BROCHURE

Sponsorship at the 2022 NW Regional ICAC Conference provides an opportunity for your organization to help support the increasingly critical information exchange, training, education, best practices, and case studies among those investigators, prosecutors and digital forensic examiners who are working tirelessly within their communities. The ICAC community is pleased to partner with other law enforcement, prosecutorial, academia and industry experts in the companion fields of Human Trafficking, Vice, and Sexual Assault Units. These partners share the same commitment and investigative challenges in the fight against child sexual exploitation, trafficking, and other forms of sexual abuse. Your sponsorship will help bring together these committed groups of professionals, many of whom would be otherwise unable to attend and partner in this most vulnerable area of our communities.

A continuing relationship between the public and private sector is essential in our global fight to protect our children and other vulnerable populations. The Washington State ICAC Task Force is honored to continue working side by side with Microsoft to bring you this conference. We would also like to recognize the Seattle Police Foundation for the addition of their partnership in 2022. We look forward to collaborating with more partners to provide financial support in critical areas of education, investigation and prosecution. Your commitment towards the mission and critical support of this conference is necessary to develop the essential public/private relationships that impact the children in all our communities.
